This document provides you with key investor information about this Sub-Fund, a sub-fund of Coeli SICAV II. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risk of investing in this Sub-Fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Prognosis Machines, a sub-fund of Coeli SICAV II

Share Class: R (USD)
ISIN: LU1307244001

Fondbolag:
MDO Management Company S.A.

Objectives & Investment Policy

The investment objective of Coeli SICAV II – Prognosis Machines is to achieve over time high risk-adjusted return with low correlation with stock and bond indices.

The strategy is Systematic Macro, where the Sub-Fund uses computer models for its trades. The models use new machine learning technology to identify changes in the investor sentiment and imitate how investors decide on strategy.

The Sub-Fund trades in derivatives such as OTC forwards and exchange-traded futures in four asset classes: stock indices, fixed income (bonds and short term interest rates), foreign exchange and commodities (only via commodity futures). The strategy can take both long and short positions.

The Sub-Fund may invest in money market instruments as a part of its cash management strategy.

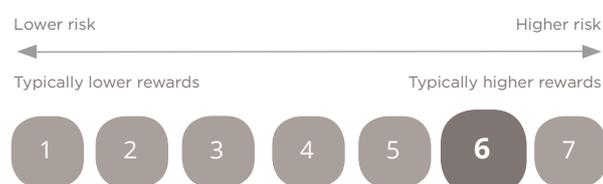

The Sub-Fund is an Alternative Investment Fund which means that it has more liberal investment rules than traditional UCITS funds.

The Sub-Fund will be open for subscriptions and redemptions all official Luxembourg working days.

The fund does not distribute dividends. All income is reinvested in the fund.

Recommendation: This Sub-Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within five years.

Risk & Reward Profile

About the indicator: The synthetic risk/reward indicator shows the relationship between risk and potential reward at an investment in the Sub-Fund. The synthetic indicator is based on the fluctuations in the Sub-Fund's value over the past five years. Where a full return history is unavailable the indicator is based on the anticipated volatility of the Sub-Fund.

About the Sub-Fund: The Sub-Fund belongs to category 6. This means that the Sub-Fund is subject to high risk in respect of rises and falls in value. Category 1 does not mean that the Sub-Fund is a risk-free investment. The Sub-Fund may over time shift to both the right and the left side of the scale. It is because the synthetic indicator is based on historical data which is not a guarantee for future risk/reward.

The Sub-Fund uses computer models for its trades in OTC forwards and exchange traded futures. This is generally characterized by high risk, but also potentially high return. The synthetic indicator mainly reflects the rises and falls of the assets the Sub-Fund has invested in.

Risks not captured by the indicator: Investors in the Sub-Fund need to take the following risk factors into particular consideration:

Leverage – The Sub-Fund invests in financial derivative instruments. To achieve its risk target, the Sub-Fund uses leverage. Leverage means that the economic exposure created by the use of derivatives is greater than the amount invested. From time to time, the market value of the derivatives held by the Sub-Fund may experience large fluctuations. Such fluctuations would be magnified by the leverage and create a high level of risk, including the risk that losses to the Sub-Fund may be substantial.

Market risk – The Sub-Fund takes long and short positions in a variety of markets in equities, interest rates, currencies and commodities. Consequently, the Sub-Fund's return is affected by the relative returns between its long and short positions and may lose money in a rising equity market.

Counterparty risk – The insolvency of any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives, may expose the Sub-Fund to financial loss.

The above mentioned list of risk factors is not exhaustive. Other factors can influence the pricing of the underlying securities and therefore this Sub-Fund.
